Mental Health Studies (HBSc)

Department of Psychology

Mental Health Studies is a sub-discipline in the field of Psychology that examines psychological well-being and mental disorders. The Specialist program is research-intensive, and focuses on processes relevant to abnormal thought, feelings and behaviour. The program seeks to understand the causes of mental disorders from the level of the brain to the impact on everyday life. Students in this program are often interested in moving into careers in the mental health field. The program aims to provide preparation for students in fields such as clinical psychology, psychiatry or psychiatric social work. Programs in Psychology and Mental Health Studies cannot be combined.

Complementary Programs: Neuroscience, Health Studies, Human Biology, Sociology, Anthropology, Linguistics.
