I missed my final exam. What do I do?
If you are more than 15 minutes late for a final exam, you will not be permitted to write. Students in this situation, or those who miss an exam due to an illness or extenuating circumstance can petition to write a deferred exam. Click here for more information on deferred exams and petitions.

Where are my grades?
Once the instructors have calculated grades, they must be approved by the department before they can be posted on ACORN. This whole process usually takes approximately 5-10 business days from the date of your final exam but this will vary by course. For your calculations, please note that the days of the University closure during the break do not count as business days.

I think a Fall grade is incorrect, what do I do?
If you feel there has been an error in your final mark, you have two options: a Clerical check or ordering an Exam Copy. If you get/view a copy of your final exam and you believe there is strong evidence of mis-evaluation, you can file a petition via eService to request a re-read.

If the weather is bad, how will I know if classes or exams have been cancelled?
Information on cancelled classes or campus closures can be found here on the Campus Safety and Security website. Updates will be also be communicated via the UTSC website, email, intranet, digital signs, the UTSC Twitter account (@UTSC) and the UTSC emergency information line at 416-287-7026.

Where can I study on campus?
Year round study space is available in various parts of the campus, like the library and computer labs. Additional spaces are provided during the exam period, click here for a list of study spaces on campus and good luck on your final exams!
